

Distinguished Lecture Series

SPONSORED BY NATIVE AMERICAN CENTER FOR HEALTH PROFESSIONS

INDIGENOUS CANCER BURDENS AND SOLUTIONS. TRUST COMMUNITY WISDOM.

Kris Rhodes, MPH

Kris Rhodes of the Bad River and Fond du Lac Bands of Lake Superior Chippewa earned a Master's of Public Health degree in Public Health Administration & Policy and a Bachelor's of Science degree in Community Health Education both from the University of Minnesota. Her professional work has focused on improving the health of American Indian and Alaskan Native health communities always with a community-led focus. She has developed tribal and urban health programs and resources with a strong focus on evaluation and research in order to develop an evidence base for what works in Native communities. She is the CEO of the American Indian Cancer Foundation, a national organization dedicated to capacity building solutions based in tribal wisdom to eliminate cancer burdens faced by American Indian and Alaska Native people.

Lecture Q&A

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 10, 2019

11:30 am – 1:00 pm

Health Sciences Learning Center, Room 3110A

750 Highland Ave., Madison, WI 53705

Networking immediately following

Light refreshments/appetizers provided

RSVP HERE

Ms. Rhodes will share available data on American Indian and Alaska Native cancer incidence and mortality by region. She will share how the American Indian Cancer Foundation is working with partners across Indian Country to change cancer outcomes by addressing the identified barriers and solutions based on a combination of community wisdom, traditional teachings, and scientific knowledge.

Funded by Indians Into Medicine (INMED) Grant, Indian Health Service.

