

Curtailing the Impact of Opioid and Other Addictive Disorders in Wisconsin: Interdisciplinary Collaboration

What are we doing to address the opioid misuse epidemic?

How can we effectively work together for the prevention and treatment of addictive disorders and overdose deaths in Wisconsin?

What are the legislative updates that impact the treatment of addictive disorders in our state?

September 29-30, 2016

With post-conference workshops on opioid prescribing and buprenorphine certification on Saturday, October 1, 2016

The Pyle Center Madison, WI

Conference Director: Aleksandra Zgierska, MD, PhD

Sponsored by the Wisconsin Society of Addiction Medicine, a chapter of the American Society of Addiction Medicine, in collaboration with University of Wisconsin – Madison Department of Family Medicine and Community Health, and St. Mary's Hospital, Madison, WI.

This course has been approved by the American Board of Addiction Medicine (ABAM). Physicians enrolled in the ABAM Maintenance of Certification (MOC) Program can apply a maximum of 12 *AMA PRA Category 1 Credit(s)*TM for completing the Wisconsin Society of Addiction Medicine Annual Conference: Curtailing the Impact of Opioid and Other Addictive Disorders in Wisconsin – Interdisciplinary Collaboration.

The Conference

Statement of Need

Opioid abuse and overdose deaths have reached the level of an epidemic in the U.S., including in Wisconsin, and the national, state and local professional organizations call for increased education on opioid overdose prevention and the treatment of substance abuse, especially opioid use disorders. Alcohol use disorders remain a significant public health problem. New emerging drugs add to the burden caused by addictive disorders locally and nationally. Clinicians and other professionals involved in improving care of individuals with addictive disorders need to be aware of the new trends in in the field in order to implement effective strategies to the prevention and treatment of addictive disorders.

Target Audience

This conference is ideal for: physicians, physician assistants, nurse practitioners, nurses, pharmacists, psychologists, social workers, mental health and substance abuse counselors, law enforcement, public health and other professionals interested in the field of addictive disorders.

Elements of Competence

This CME activity has been designed to expand the learners' knowledge about multidisciplinary, effective approaches to the prevention and treatment of addictive disorders, especially opioid use disorders. Increased clinician knowledge in these areas will lay foundation for identifying and bridging gaps in care so that treatment access and outcomes are improved among individuals affected by addictive disorders in Wisconsin.

Program Highlights

	Multidisciplinary perspectives from leading experts and individuals in recovery on how to reduce the impact of addictive disorders in Wisconsin.
	Content is relevant to addressing Wisconsin's epidemic of opioid use disorders and overdose deaths, and the treatment of addictive disorders and co-occurring mental health problems.
	Content will reinforce a foundation for providing exemplary patient care.
	Attendance can provide up to 12.0 AMA Category 1 Continued Medical Education credits
Objed	ctives
	Describe multiple perspectives to the prevention and treatment of opioid and other addictive disorders in Wisconsin.
	Evaluate current knowledge and communication gaps in addressing addictive disorders.
	Formulate ideas about ways of effective, collaborative efforts to curtail the impact of addictive disorders, especially the epidemic of opioid use disorders and overdose deaths, in Wisconsin.

Expand knowledge about evidence-based treatment approaches to addictive disorders and co-

☐ Apply the acquired knowledge to support collaborative efforts and effectively reduce the impact of addictive disorders in Wisconsin.

The conference will take place at the Pyle Center in Madison, WI. The Pyle Center is located one block from State Street, which has a wide variety of shops, restaurants, art galleries and music venues. It offers ample meeting and reception space, food and beverage services. Wireless internet is provided free of charge.

FACULTY

Matthew J. Bair, MD, MS is a core investigator for the VA Health Services Research and Development Center for Health Information and Communication, an attending physician in the Inpatient Medicine Service at Richard L. Roudebush VA Medical Center, and Associate Professor of Medicine in the Indiana University School of Medicine. His specific program of research is focused on affective disorders (e.g. depression and anxiety) and chronic pain and developing strategies to improve pain management in the primary care setting. Dr. Bair currently serves as editorial board member for the journals Pain Medicine and Pain Practice and deputy editor for the Journal of General Internal Medicine. He is director of the Health Services Research & Development Advanced Fellowship Program at Roudebush VA Medical Center, and teaches implementation research methods and evidence-based medicine to medical residents, fellows, and IUPUI junior faculty. In 2013, IU medical students selected him as "Outstanding Educator", and in 2014, he received an Indiana University Teaching Award for his instruction in the Student Outpatient Clinic.

Daniel G. Tobin, MD, FACP is an Assistant Professor at the Yale University School of Medicine and serves as the Medical Director for the Primary Care Center at the Saint Raphael's Campus of Yale-New Haven Hospital. Additionally, Dr. Tobin attends on the inpatient wards at Yale-New Haven Hospital and is core faculty for the Yale Primary Care Internal Medicine Residency Program where he helps to develop and oversee the ambulatory education of the residents. Dr. Tobin is currently the Chair of the Board of Regional Leaders for the Society of General Internal Medicine (SGIM) and serves on the SGIM National Leadership Council as well as the Governor's Council for the CT Chapter of the American College of Physicians. He is also a Past-President for the New England Region of SGIM. His primary area of academic interest is the study of prescription drug abuse, opioid safety, and chronic pain management. Dr. Tobin lectures on these topics nationally and has partnered with public health leaders and elected officials in Connecticut to develop and promote legislation supporting the safe use and disposal of opioids throughout the state.
