

Sashi Gregory, MPH
Wisconsin Primary Health Care Association

Sashi Gregory has grown up with the great luck of having a Sri Lankan family spread all over the world and the opportunities to visit them. She was born in Zambia and grew up in some great college towns – Ann Arbor, MI and Gainesville, FL. She currently works for the Wisconsin Primary Care Association as the Policy and Research Director. She loves working with and learning from Wisconsin's Community Health Centers as they work to provide primary care and more to some of the most disenfranchised communities in Wisconsin.

In her free time she enjoys spending time with her husband and two daughters (a lot of that time watching them play softball), long walks with her dog Darryl and gardening.
