

Lisa Sampson, MBA
DFMCH Director of Research Operations

Lisa Sampson has been serving as the Director of Research Operations for the Department of Family Medicine & Community Health (DFMCH) since 2018. In her previous role as Program Manager for the Wisconsin Research and Education Network (WREN), she demonstrated exceptional administrative leadership. Currently, she provides critical support for administrative research and grant management within DFMCH and oversees efforts to enhance integration across all departmental research programs.

Lisa earned her Master of Business Administration from Cardinal Stritch University in 2012. Before joining DFMCH, she amassed over 17 years of experience in laboratory, clinical, and translational research within the Department of Radiology at the University of Wisconsin.

Outside of her professional responsibilities, Lisa cherishes time with her husband and two daughters. She has a passion for showing horses, enjoys outdoor activities, and contributes to her community by coaching basketball.
